Shenyang Liren Medical & Technological Co.,Ltd (Original Shenyang Xinxin Medical & Health-care Articles Factory)

general manager: Wang Jinglun ,was graduated from China Medical & Technological University and then stayed there for teaching in 1965. He was in the charge of organize personnel and scientific management work in Provincial Office in 1980. He was appointed as the director of Provincial promotion department, vice-director of Provincial Family Plan Committee, inspector, vice-president of China Eugenic-Scientific Association, director of Reproductive Health Committee. He has about 12 scientific works on reproductive health and his several achievements were rewarded by Province and city.

The function and prospect of Intrauterine Device in reproductive health domain

In 1995, WHO emphasized the global health strategy again, and set up two international targets. One is “ everybody can enjoy the healthy care in 2000”, the other is “everybody will enjoy their productive health in 2015” . It showed us the important status of reproductive health in the 21st century.

As all known, reaching the international target of reproductive health , we need some conditions. Intrauterine Device (Naked IU D) can effectively control birth. It also can help to realizing the international target of productive health.

1、 IUD played an important role in reproductive health

Effective contraception and independent birth can protect people's reproductive health. They're essential part of improving the female's society status. In 1994, the international meeting of population and development in Cairo, Egypt , which divided reproductive healthy concept into six parts, and the safely effective contraception are core. Generally Speaking, female's birth period may last more than 30 years. If there's no effective contraception, it'll be very difficult to reduce non- wish pregnancy.

China has obtained much successful experience since producing and promoting IUD in 1959. To be tested, because of good effects of contraception, safe reliance, long-term function, convenient use ,easy resume, IUD is becoming more and more popular and accepting by more women.

According to the statistics in 1998, about 143.69 million people are using the IUD to, and China accounts for 69%. According to the statistics in 2000, 227 million people take comprehensive measures to control birth and the users of IUD account for 46.32%.Recently ,as the free choice of contraception and promotion of service, the number of users of IUD is becoming more and more.

The widely using of IUD helped to carrying out our population policy, reducing the number of non- wish abortion and operation. IUD guaranteed female's reproductive health greatly. And its status and effect can't be neglected.

2、 The key of extending IUD lies enhancing the management level.

The topic of this meeting is quality management of drugs, IUD is not drug, but because it must contact with human body when it was used. So the quality management is extremely strict. It belonged to III medical device. From perspective, IUD has a great potentiality. It is reported that although the number of contraception people will rise, the rate of choosing measures of contraception stay still in most areas by 2015. It is estimated that the rate of application of IUD will rise 4% in the Asia-Pacific area. But product quality will decide whether it can be used widely or not.

Shenyang Liren Medical & Technological Co.,ltd and Shenyang Sky & Land Latex Co.,Ltd. are the specialized manufactories designated by state of IUD and condoms. We pay more attention to quality management, and try our best to provide the safe effective contraception to women. The enhancement of reproductive health is our permanent pursuit. Taking IUD as an example, design must be conform human body's characteristic and do a series of tests to raw material, such as physical property, stimulation, toxicity and so on . According to standard of China Family Plan Committee, IUD has a clinical history of 6 years and begin to test production after identifying by national medical management department.

At present, our condom product has entered the international market, Flower design IUD conform to the superior selection standard of China Family Committee, and has been listed on the procurement schedule. But we can't satisfied with the whole, we still view the quality as the first important thing. We strictly conform the standard of national medical device .We pay more attention to the every step of production ,normative operation, scientific management and guarantee the service to customers. We not only produce excellent products but also set up our better brand. We are determinate to do some contribution to improving Human's reproductive health.

3、 Intensifying international exchange and cooperation, promoting common development

China and "south -south" countries are the earliest one of the places of Human's civilization source. The exchange and cooperation have a bright future in reproductive health field. Our product Flower Design Intrauterine Device (HCu 280) have many advantage, such as convenient use ,good effect, slight side effect, practical safety. It is the healthy production that not only for Chinese women but also for women from different countries and areas.

According to the feedback from all provinces in China, this product is popular with women. It is economical for using IUD to control birth for women in developing countries. The cost of having contraceptive is 3.6 dollars per year. It is 3 times the cost of sterilization and 20 times the cost of using IUD.

- We are willing to provide this kind of good- quality reproductive health product and service for international friends. We are willing to further cooperation ,promote communal development and create the condition to prosperity altogether, and do the contribution to protecting the people's reproductive health.
- At the same time, we will be earnest to study the valuable experience of every country in the reproduction healthy domain. We are willing to obtain instruction and the support about our enterprise.
